The 17th MiningForum

Every two years, experts from the mining and raw materials sector from all over the world meet at Germany's international networking conference. Over 400 international participants will discuss mining related topics under the motto "For a sustainable future" on June 6th and 7th.

For a sustainable Future

Over the next few years, industry and society will be pursuing common goals: Creating a climate-neutral economy and the achievement of the goals of the European Green Deal. Raw materials are one of the key factors for the energy and mobility transition – just as sustainable mining will be a key factor for a sustainable world.

International Mining Hub

MiningForum brings together experts, decision makers from the mining industry, from society and from politics to present and discuss current topics relating to the raw materials industry. Help shape the vision of sustainable mining and be part of our international mining hub.
